

The W. T. Lippincott Symposium: Prospects and Retrospects in Chemical Education

In June 1979 Tom Lippincott will step down after twelve years of exemplary service as Editor of the Journal of Chemical Education. To mark this occasion a symposium entitled "Prospects and Retrospects in Chemical Education" is scheduled for April 3, 1979 at the Honolulu meeting of the American Chemical Society. The speakers will be Linus Pauling, Peter Farago (Editor: Chemistry in Britain), Robert Parry (University of Utah), Bassam Shakhashiri (University of Wisconsin), Robert Brasted (University of Minnesota), George Pimentel (National Science Foundation and University of California), Ben Luberoff (Editor Chem Tech), William Kieffer (Former Editor Journal of Chemical Education and College of Wooster), Joseph Lagowski (Editor-designate Journal of Chemical Education and University of Texas), Anna Harrison (Mount Holyoke), and Tom Lippincott.

It is our expectation that many of these talks will lead to articles which will be published in a special issue of the JOURNAL. Since room could not be found on the program for all of Tom's many friends and admirers we invite them to consider submitting manuscripts for possible inclusion in this special valedictory issue by April 1, 1979.
